This screenshot shows the top portion of a submission form. It includes a progress bar at the top right indicating 'In progress'. The form is divided into several sections, each with a numbered callout indicating the font style to be applied: 2. Add Photos/Videos (Optional), 3. Section Header Controls, 1. Form Fieldset Label, 4. Labels, 6. Links, 5. Dimension Values, 11. Skip, and 8. Buttons - Secondary. A 'Submit' button is visible at the bottom left of this section.

This screenshot shows the 'Brand Details' section of the submission form. It includes a 'Would you recommend testcustomer-swat-re' question with a rating scale from 0 to 10. The '10' is highlighted, indicating a 'Definitely' rating. Below the rating scale is a 'Submit' button. To the right of the rating scale is a 'Skip' button. A 'Labels' callout is also present.

This screenshot shows the 'Photo guidelines' section of the submission form. It includes a list of guidelines for submitting images, such as 'Images must be in JPG, JPEG, PNG, GIF, TIF, TIFF, HEIC or HEIF format' and 'File size must be 10 MB or less'. A 'Close' button is located at the bottom right of the guidelines section.

This screenshot shows a 'Success' message indicating that the review was submitted. The message is displayed in a green box with a checkmark icon. Below the message is a 'Labels (except color)' callout. A 'Close' button is located at the bottom right of the success message.

Backgrounds

6. Primary Button

Affects the background color of submission form buttons, which will have 50% opacity until form sections are completed.

Note: To avoid color combinations that can cause poor accessibility, a contrast ratio of 4.5:1 is enforced for all elements. This primary brand color of the app, used for buttons, draws from the primary button background color and is measured against the app background (#FFF or white). Should that contrast check fail, the Full bar color (found in the Style Editor under Icons : Bars: Full) is checked against the app background as a fallback candidate. Should that fail, the primary brand color becomes #444.

Note for Cancel button: The Cancel button uses Fonts: Buttons - Primary as its font family, Backgrounds: Primary Button as the button color and border color and a transparent color as the background color.

- Full: The full star fill color, used for both product ratings and secondary ratings, is measured against the app background of #FFF (white).
Note: We allow for a lower contrast ratio in the Review Star color (1.2:1) to accommodate a broader range of brand colors for stars. This helps prevent white on white and transparency issues while still accepting common lower contrast color combinations if desired.
Should that contrast check fail, the primary app color, drawn from the primary button background color, is used.
- Empty: The star empty color is measured against the star fill and app background colors.
Note: We allow for a lower contrast ratio in the Review Star color (1.2:1) to accommodate a broader range of brand colors for stars. This helps prevent white on white and transparency issues while still accepting common lower contrast color combinations if desired.
If the contrast ratio is not acceptable, the color is set to #CCC (light gray).

This color is used in many different places.

- It is used as the text color for the message to either add text to your rating or to finish editing.
- It is used for the active border color for text inputs.
- It is more importantly used as the brand color, so most styles default to whatever is provided in this field. This includes the other question types, such as the single and multi-select.
- It is also used for the CTA button at the bottom of the page.

Note: To avoid color combinations that can cause poor accessibility, a contrast ratio of 4.5:1 is enforced for all elements.

44. Review Stars

- Full: The full star fill color is measured against the email background. For the stars next to the radio buttons, a slightly lighter version of the full star color is used on the filled stars. On hover and click, the filled stars are full color. For the clickable stars in the “Rate your other purchases” section, the full star color is used for stars when hovered over and clicked on.

Note: To meet accessibility standards and accommodate a broader range of brand colors, we allow a low contrast ratio (1.2:1) for the review stars full color. If the contrast ratio is lower than 1.2:1, or if an element is transparent, the fallback color #444 (dark gray) is used.

- Empty: The empty star color is used for the star color outline in the stars next to the radio buttons. The empty star outline color is also used in the “Rate your other purchases” section.

Note: To meet accessibility standards and accommodate a broader range of brand colors, we allow a low contrast ratio (1.2:1) for the review stars outline color. This helps prevent white-on-white and transparency issues while still accepting common, low-contrast color combinations if desired. If the contrast ratio is lower than 1.2:1, or if an element is transparent, the fallback color #CCC (light gray) is used.

45. Review Text

This color is used for the main text colors in the email.

A slightly lighter version of this color is used for the following text.

- “Can’t enter text?” message under “Your review.”
- “Quality insights are...” text under the review text field.
- “If you are unable to submit...” text under the Submit button.
- “Start rating” text under the clickable stars.
- Non-linked text in the footer.

46. Links

Link: This color is used for the link colors in the email.

Note: To avoid color combinations that do not meet accessibility standards, we allow for a contrast ratio of 4.5:1 for all elements. If the contrast ratio is lower than 4.5:1, or if an element is transparent, the fallback color #0066B4 (blue) is used.

47. Buttons - Primary

Primary Button: This color is used for the text color of the buttons. For example, the "WRITE A REVIEW" button.

Note: To avoid color combinations that do not meet accessibility standards, we allow for a contrast ratio of 4.5:1 for all elements. If the contrast ratio is lower than 4.5:1, or if an element is transparent, the fallback color #fff (very light gray) is used.

Backgrounds

47. Buttons - Primary

This color is used for the button backgrounds.

- On some iOS devices, a disabled button is indicated using a slightly lighter background color based on the primary button color.

Borders

49. Primary Button

The top left border radius determines the border radius of the buttons.
